Feature of the Week:

Graduate Student Appreciation Week!

PGSG
Purdue Graduate Student Government

April 2nd - April 6th

Moral of the story: Grad Students ROCK. Purdue Graduate Student Government has put together some great events to show graduate students how much they are appreciated. For a look at all of the events happening this week, see the schedule below:
http://web.ics.purdue.edu/~pgsg/news/2012/03/21/pgsg-announces-graduate-student-appreciation-week-april-2-6-2012/

Also, don't forget to pick up and wear your "Grad Students have Statistical Significance" button. Many local businesses and restaurants will be giving discounts to graduate students who are wearing their buttons.

Check out the list here:
http://web.ics.purdue.edu/~pgsg/news/2012/03/28/businesses-offering-discounts-for-gsa-week-april-2-6-must-be-wearing-your-button/
These events and discounts are for grad students only so take advantage of them while they last!

Feature of the week:
Volunteer Science Fair Judge!

The Wea Ridge Elementary School Fourth Grade Invention Convention is looking for judges to work on Tuesday, April 17, 2012. The judging will take place in the morning from 9:30-11:30am. This usually takes about 1.5 hours.

The kids think it's cool that scientists and engineers come to judge their projects, and the teachers appreciate our volunteered time. Please take advantage of this opportunity to represent your profession! You may be the first science or engineering professional the student has met, and the memory you create will impact that child's life. In addition, the model you provide may influence a student's career choice.

Please contact Brenda Hofmann if you would like to volunteer!
