

Hello Dan!

Hope you are doing well! I wanted to send over a note and let you know that ADM still has a few remaining Grain Operations internships available and we'd love to have more representation from Purdue! We provide fully furnished housing and can be flexible on location depending on the student's needs. If possible, could you send out a push to your students with this job posting?

FYI - we can consider freshman but we typically prefer sophomores and above. If you do have any freshman who are interested, we can consider them if they have demonstrated leadership and are excelling academically. Our internships offer fully furnished housing, reimbursement for mileage to and from internship site, and may other features. Job pay range is $21-$24 per hour. I have already posted this job to the Purdue Career Services page but wanted to see if you could help push out this job as well.

If you have any students who want to connect with me to ask questions prior to applying, feel free to share my email address with them – it's no problem at all!

Than you and I look forward to hearing from you soon!

Ann
