

Offered Fall 2021 and Spring 2022:

GRAD 590: Fellowship and Grant Application Writing “Light” version – Content without writing assignments

CRN: 21906

This 1.0 credit hour, pass/no pass, class focuses on learning information that is fundamental to grant and fellowship writing. GRAD 590 uses the same lecture content from GRAD 550 but with quizzes instead of assignments and discussion.

Class Meeting Time: Online and Asynchronous – no live class sessions

Prerequisites: Enrollment in a PhD or Masters Research-Based Program

Credit Hours: 1.0 (one class module per week with quizzes over the content)

Offered Spring 2022:

GRAD 550: Fellowship and Grant Application Writing

This 2.0 credit hour, pass/no pass, class gives you a structured system to practice proposal writing and prepare fellowship application statements. Class content focuses on common fellowship application components and the analysis of writing mechanics and content.

Class Meeting Time: Tuesdays 3:30 – 4:20, discussions and activities, writing assignments

Prerequisites: Enrollment in a PhD or Masters Research-Based Program

Credit Hours: 2.0 (one in-person class per week with discussion and writing assignments)

Both Classes Cover the Same Lecture Content:

- Identification of Funding Opportunities
- Personal Statements
- Research Project Planning, Research Statements
- Grant Proposal Writing Style and Tone
- Quick and Effective Editing Practices

Questions? Contact the instructor, Dr. Lisa Nielsen, at lnielse@purdue.edu.