Given the evolving funding landscape, how can we collaboratively design interdisciplinary research initiatives that deliver greater societal and economic value? Come join us for an engaging 90-minute hands-on workshop where we share experiences, proven strategies and tools that strengthen teaming, proposals, & research translation for societal impacts. Faculty will learn strategies to strengthen their research value chain from funding to implementation.

What You'll Gain:

- Insights distilled from over 50 research projects to help align with funders priorities around research utilization and impact, decoding funder expectations
- Understanding pathways to bridge research and practices to increase potential impacts
- Critical elements for impactful research design in strengthening proposals and managing complex research programs.
