

Those who Didn't Study Abroad

We were interested to know more about participants who didn't have a global educational experience. Specifically, we asked them to identify barriers to participating in a global educational program, provide input as to what could have influenced them to participate, and whether they would have liked to participate.

Survey Question

Did you experience any of the following barriers to your participation in a global educational experience as an undergraduate student? (Mark all that apply.)

The top barriers to participation were challenges fitting the experience into a plan of study, financial constraints, and a lack of information.

Survey Question

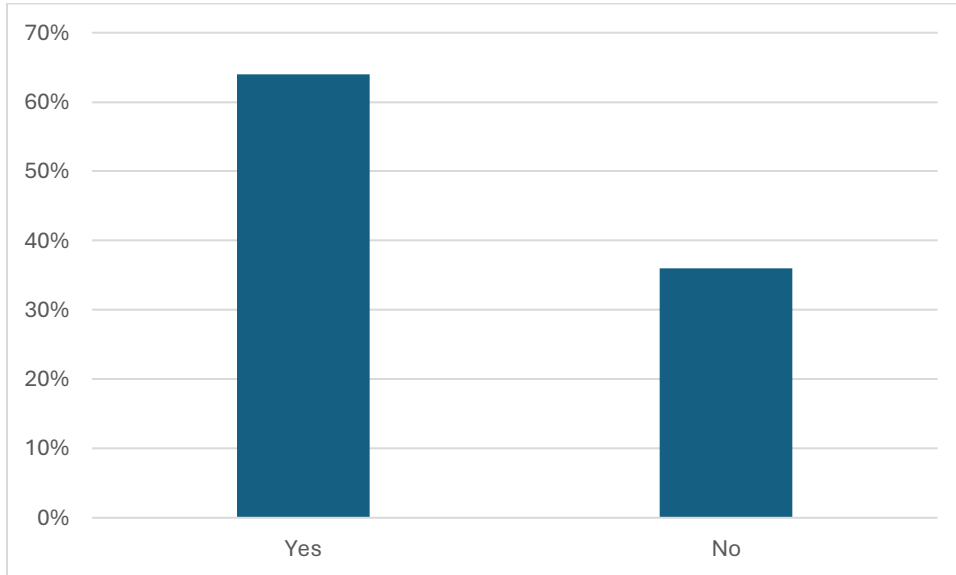

Would having access to the following resources have influenced your decision to participate in a global educational program? (Mark all that apply.)

Similar to the last question where, a majority of respondents desired programs that more easily fit into a plan of study. Other resources which participants would have benefited from include scholarships/funding, easier access to information, and mentorship.

Survey Question

Do you wish you had participated in a global educational program during your undergraduate program?

Close to two-thirds (64%) of participants wish they had participated in a global educational experience during their undergraduate.
