

Meet the Dean

Monday, March 5, 2018

12:00 — 1pm ABE Room 204

Free food!

Dr. Mason has been interim Dean of the Graduate School since August 1, 2017. She has established an internationally recognized pest management program in stored products entomology and has been a consultant for many of the largest food producers and retailers worldwide. In 2010, Mason joined the Graduate School as Associate Dean focusing on the Responsible Conduct of Research program, fellowships, and professional development of graduate and postdoctoral students. She has been actively involved in the ADVANCE-Purdue initiative and diversity training workshops, and is a former chair of the University Senate. She also brought the popular and challenging Three Minute Thesis (3MT) competition to Purdue. In this seminar, Dr. Mason will discuss her personal career journey, advice for graduate students, and collaboration with industry.
