

Photo taken 16 Mar 1996 by Philip Schneider, shortly after arrival of the surplus tank. Shows Barbara Schneider, Ariel Schneider, and Philip's son Steve Schneider holding Kaitlyn. As of Dec. 2007, Ariel is grown and in college, Kaitlyn is grown and a sophomore in high school, Philip is dead, and the tank is cleaned up and a part of the only operational hypersonic wind tunnel in the world with low noise levels comparable to flight.

Photo taken looking east from near the northeast corner of the Aerospace Sciences Lab at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana. The old quonset hut to the south of the large tank was torn down ca. 2002 or so. As of Dec. 2007, the area is a gravel parking lot.

