Assignment #1 Seemingly Unrelated Regression Estimation

A survey of 206 people was conducted on the campus of Purdue University in the Fall of 2007. One of the key questions of the survey was to find out how fast people drove on interstate highways with speed limits of 55 mph, 65 mph and 70 mph.

Your task is to estimate a seemingly unrelated regression model to determine the normal driving speed of individuals in this data sample. The equation system:

$$Speed_{70} = \beta_{70}Z + \alpha_{70}X + \varepsilon_{70}$$

$$Speed_{65} = \beta_{65}Z + \alpha_{65}X + \varepsilon_{65}$$

$$Speed_{55} = \beta_{55}Z + \alpha_{55}X + \varepsilon_{55}$$

In these equations, $Speed_{70}$, $Speed_{65}$ and $Speed_{55}$ are the number of miles per hour respondents normally drive above the speed limit (with little traffic) for 70, 65, and 55 mph speed limits, respectively. These variables can take on positive values if respondents normally drive above the speed limit and negative values if they normally drive below it. Also in these equations, Z is a vector of driver and driver-household characteristics, X is a vector of vector of driver preferences and opinions, β s, α 's, are vectors of estimable parameters, and ε 's are disturbance terms. Include:

1. The results of your best model specification.
2. A discussion of the logical process that led you to the selection of your final specification (the theory behind the inclusion of your selected variables). Include t -statistics and justify the signs of your variables.
